Hiking trips to primeval forests in the Austrian-Czech border area in 2019

After the trip on the 4th of May, 2019 from the Nebelstein across the border to the primeval forest Zofin in South Bohemian / Czechia) both transborder trips also found in October, in 5. 10. to the Bavarian meadow as well as in 6. 10. to the primeval forest Boubin and on the Boubin summit (Bohemian Forest in Austria and in Czechia), in each case with nature study guidance, active interest. The guidances by Martin Jelinek (Boubin), Hubert Katzlinger (Bavarian meadow) and Iris Niederdöckl (Bohemian Forest school) the participants found great.

Planning meeting about the European Primeval Forest Trail in 12. 11. in the center of the National Park Kalkalpen in Molln (A)

In the planning meeting the binding was discussed by UNESCO-Buchenwald areas in Austria to the primeval forest route. Here the briefly result. Three protective areas: The national park Gesäuse and Kalkalpen as well as the wilderness area Dürrenstein developed as a long distance trail the Luchs-Trail from which the primeval forest route should lead in a connecting path to the main route through the Bohemian Forest. Start of the path should be in Reichraming where the info centre wood is. Also the house of the wilderness in Lunz is integrated (completion in 2020). The connecting path should cross the Danube nearby Grein and lead by an existing living space corridor between the Kalkalpen and the Bohemian Forest to Sandl (A) and connect here to the main route.
